This journal provides you with a simple means to monitor your risk factors for heart disease. An important part of living with heart disease is understanding and monitoring your blood pressure, weight, and cholesterol values. You can learn to monitor changes in your body by writing down your weekly weight and blood pressure. This journal also provides room for you to write down brief nutrition notes. The diet you create together with your doctor and registered dietitian becomes a form of treatment, medical nutrition therapy, which is personalized just for you. You may also use the space in your journal to keep up with doctor appointments, sick days, and questions that you want to remember to ask your doctor, dietitian or certified diabetes educator. This book includes a daily calendar, 110 recipes from Betty Crocker's Healthy Heart Cookbook, and informational tips throughout on such subjects as saturated fat, healthy cooking, shopping strategies, depression, obesity, and much much more.
